e-Distribution Enhancements Released

T-Soft's flagship eCommerce product offering

West Newton, PA – October 10, 2005 – T-Soft, Inc. today announced the latest release of e-Distribution, their flagship eCommerce software offering for their long-time customer, Actebis SA.

Actebis SA, located in Switzerland, is a leading distributor of more than 10,000 computer related products including PCs, Servers, Peripherals, Storage, Networking, Software, Components and Supplies. Hewlett Packard, Microsoft, Fujitsu Siemens Computers, Acer, Intel and Seagate are just a few of their suppliers.

T-Soft has been providing Actebis business software support and custom software development services since 1995. Beginning in 1999, T-Soft was selected to design and develop a custom, database driven, business-to-business Web solution for Actebis. e-Distribution is completely integrated with the Actebis SA back-office ERP system (SAP). T-Soft's recent enhancements to the site include:

- DataExchange is an XML based Web service that allows Actebis resellers (VARs) to define a custom product catalogue, catalogue delivery method, and delivery schedule and then automatically builds and delivers the custom catalogues based on the reseller's specifications.
- PriceBridge is a complex pricing engine that can price products based on a virtually unlimited set of rules and conditions.
- CNet Integration automates import and export processes that integrate extended product attribute and specification information provided by a third party with the e-distribution database and Web site.
- Product Showroom is a Web based content management application that allows Actebis to design the layout of various product promotions for their e-distribution site using a variety of styles, specify special pricing, starting and ending dates, and much more.

Through e-Distribution, Actebis empowers their resellers to build their own e-Shop websites (site within a site). The latest version also interfaces with Hewlett Packard's configurator database to allow Actebis Reseller's customers to custom build their own Hewlett Packard PC's on-line.

"With the implementation of the new e-Shop, we provide our resellers a personalized on-line shop [for their customers] taking full advantage of all the rich features available in e-Distribution" says Christophe Castaing, Sales Director for Actebis.

"The full integration in our e-Distribution makes this tool simple, fast to set-up, efficient and cost less."

"We're excited about the enhancements to e-Distribution and what it means for Actebis", says Frank Greenawalt, President of T-Soft. "Actebis resellers will have up to date information on new product offerings, pricing, inventory, promotionals, etc., automatically available on their own websites without having to worry about how to post or maintain the information."

Castaing goes on to say "According to our VARs, e-Shop is the right answer they were waiting for in their very competitive business. It's another example of Actebis supporting our customers [the resellers] to increase their business in a very aggressive and changing environment."
